By Tom Horrocks - November, 17 2018

Mikaela Shiffrin (Avon, Colo.) opened her quest for her sixth career FIS Ski World Cup slalom crystal globe with another dominating victory in the season-opening slalom under the lights in Levi, Finland on Saturday.

"I felt good, I was even surprised at how good the course felt with the warm conditions," said Shiffrin, who now has 44 career World Cup victories, including three slalom wins in Levi—which equals Germany Maria Höfl-Riesch's record win count on the Levi Black slope. "I had a little bit of a scary moment on the pitch, but I fought through it and it was fun!"

The start of the first run was delayed an hour and moved further down the mountain due to windy conditions. Due to the wind, the gondola was also inoperable, so athletes were shuttled on buses to the start for inspection. But despite the warm temperatures, the course remained hard and fast. Shiffrin started first in the opening run and never looked back, taking a 0.14 second lead over Sweden's Friday Hansdotter, who eventually settled for fourth.

Slovakia's Petra Vhlova skied a solid second run to finish second, 0.58 seconds back of Shiffrin's winning time, and Austria's Bernadette Schild was third, 0.79 seconds back. Resi Stiegler (Jackson Hole, Wyo.), who was racing for the first time since sustaining a knee injury at the Olympic slalom in PyeongChang, and Nina O'Brien (Denver, Colo.), also started for the U.S. but did not qualify for the second run.

Saturday's victory also moves Shiffrin into the overall World Cup lead, following her third-place finish in the giant slalom at Soelden, Austria, last month. With 160 points, Shiffrin leads the standings over France's Tessa Worley (100 points) followed by Switzerland's Wendy Holdener (81 points).

The women's World Cup circuit moves on to Vermont's Killington Resort for the Killington Cup, Nov. 24-25 with giant slalom and slalom events. Shiffrin has won the slalom the past two years at Killington and finished fifth in the giant slalom in 2016, and second in 2017.

Shiffrin's reindeer herd also expanded with her third slalom victory in Levi. She named her newest addition Mr. Gru (from the movie Despicable Me). Mr. Gru joins Sven, won in 2016, and Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer won in 2013.

Following the cancellation of the giant slalom in Soelden, the men's World Cup season kicks off Sunday at Levi with slalom. American men's starters will be Mark Engel (Truckee, Calif.), Hig Roberts (Steamboat Springs, Colo.) Robby Kelley (Starksboro, Vt.), River Radamus (Edwards, Colo.) and Luke Winters (Gresham, Ore.).

Shiffrin Wows Crowd With Third - Straight Killington Slalom Win

By Tom Horrocks - November, 25 2018

KILLINGTON, VT Mikaela Shiffrin (Avon, Colo.) skied away with her 45th World Cup victory Sunday, but the fans at Vermont's Killington Resort were the real winners this weekend. More than 15,000 screaming fans braved mist, rain, and fog to cheer not only the best ski racer in the world to victory, but for the first time in years, three Americans who qualified for the second run.

"I could hear them from the start. It was deafening," said Shiffrin, who won her second consecutive World Cup slalom of the season, and her third-straight Killington Cup slalom victory ahead of Slovakia's Petra Vlhova in second and Sweden's Frida Hansdotter in third. "The crowd really carried me down the hill and it's just amazing to race here in front of everybody. The atmosphere is just so incredible and it's really, really a special race."

Shiffrin skied to a 0.29 second first-run lead over Austria's Bernadette Schild, and more than a half-second ahead of Slovakia's Petra Vlhova on an "interesting" first run course set, which challenged a number of racers, in addition to the fog rolling in and out.

"I knew it was going to be a fight because of the tough conditions today, it was pretty sloppy snow, but I figured, 'well, everybody has to fight, and if I fight harder, we'll see what happens,'" Shiffrin said. "There were a couple points on the course where I wasn't actually sure if I was still on the course, but I kept my skis moving and then I was like: 'I'm in the finish!' It worked!"

"I was really just hanging on at the end there," said Nina O'Brien (Denver, Colo.), who made her World Cup debut at Killington in 2016 and finally in her 14th World Cup start, qualified for the second run after coming out of the 48th start position to finish 30th in the first run. "It feels so good to finally make it in there and be a part of the second run. I've had a lot of tries, and close calls, and a few not as close... but it's really a breakthrough today."

In addition to O'Brien, who finished 23rd, Paula Moltzan (Burlington, Vt.) wowed the home-state crowd with a career-best World Cup finish in 17th.

"It's super unexpected," said Moltzan, who was joined at the race by some of her current and former University of Vermont teammates. "It's typical to have such a great hometown crowd, I'm a little sad that my parents aren't here, but I've got a lot of other people that love me and it is an incredible atmosphere out here."

Sunday's race was the first time in years that three Americans have qualified for the second run in slalom, and all scoring World Cup points. Both Shiffrin and O'Brien agreed that it is the start of something special.

"It's been a while since we've had a really strong showing and Nina... I watched her first run today and I was like 'that's the kind of fight I'm going to have to have in the second run.' It was so awesome," Shiffrin said. "We've been training together and I've seen these flashes of absolutely brilliant skiing and I saw some of that today."

"We have some really good strong racers, and it's really cool to have this kind of showing of Americans in the second run and on the final board," Shiffrin added.

Up next, the women's World Cup moves on to Lake Louise for a pair of downhill and a super-G. Shiffrin scored her first career World Cup downhill win at Lake Louise last season and plans to compete in all three events next week.

4th and 5th Graders Ski & Ride FREE in Pennsylvania! 2018-2019

SkiPA Makes it Affordable for Kids to Hit the Slopes this Winter with the 2018/2019 Snowpass Program

White Haven, PA – September 2018 – The Pennsylvania Ski Areas Association (SkiPA) wants to make it affordable for kids to stay active, have fun and get outdoors with their families this winter. Celebrating its fifteenth anniversary this season, the Snowpass program provides every fourth and fifth grader the opportunity to ski or snowboard for free, up to three times at 21 participating Pennsylvania area ski resorts, when accompanied by a paying adult.

No need to worry if your child has never skied or snowboarded before, the Snowpass contains (1) FREE Learn to Ski/Board package, which includes beginner lift ticket, lesson and equipment rental with a paying adult. The Snowpass program is also not restricted to residents of Pennsylvania. Any fourth or fifth grade student can participate by completing a simple application and providing a report card or other document verifying they are currently in the fourth or fifth grade. A photo of the student is also required. You can apply online at www.skipa.com or download an application and apply by mail. There is a nominal administration/processing fee of $35 and $40 December 1, 2018 or after. Quantities are limited. Snowpasses are issued on a first come, first serve basis. Details of the program including rules and black-out dates can be found on the website www.skipa.com.

Skiing and snowboarding offer families the opportunity to exercise outside together during the winter months. A ninety-pound youth can burn between two and three hundred calories per hour skiing and / or snowboarding depending on their activity level. Skiing and snowboarding are listed among the activities included in the President's Challenge organized by the President's Council on Fitness, Sports and Nutrition. Children and adults can earn points toward a Presidential Active Lifestyle Award by skiing and snowboarding. Twenty-one ski/snowboard resorts across Pennsylvania belong to the Snowpass program.

The Snowpass is not restricted to residents of Pennsylvania. Any fourth or fifth grade student can participate by completing a simple application and providing a report card or other document verifying they are currently in the fourth or fifth grade.
